BOMBS RIP KIEL AND PAS-DE-CALAIS AREA

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE DECISIVE BATTLE of the European war, Berlin declares, will have to be fought on the German west wall defenses of the invasion zone, and "the real attack must come from the supply base and aircraft carrier, England."

This assertion is made with a worried weather eye on the up-and-down Allied offensive in Italy. There the Nazis are in a nasty jam, with both flanks of their loudly sung Adolf Hitler line in danger of being turned—on the left wing by the French and on the right by the Americans.

The German appraisal of the general situation—made with the idea of reassuring a jittery home public—isn't exactly accurate, since Hitler will be crushed by concerted Allied action from west, south and east. However, it's true in the sense that we can't put the big squeeze on the Fuehrer until his formidable fortifications along the invasion coast have been smashed and we have established ashore a great army headed for Berlin.

There's no question of the ability of the western Allies to set up a second front, and even the Germans admit that this can be done. Still, while we refuse to consider the possibility of failure in such an operation, it must be said hypothetically that if there were no invasion of western Europe the war would drag on interminably no matter how much striking power the Russians might apply on the eastern front.

It's equally true, of course, that an invasion by the western Allies would be long in knocking out the Germans if the Red armies weren't hammering the enemy on the eastern front. There must be pressure on both sides.

Berlin is right in saying that England is the logical base and "aircraft carrier" for invasion. It's the nearest of all feasible bases for the direct invasion route into western Europe. That's why the Allies are preparing to hit straight into the toughest defenses there.

THE MOSCOW COMMUNIST newspaper Pravda says D-day is imminent. Viewing the Allied offensive in Italy with great approval, Pravda declares that the cracking of the Hitler line has shown the Germans that "the Allies are capable of breaking any defense, and possess sufficient forces to do so."

That undoubtedly is true. The Allies now have not only the will but the way to smash Hitler, and are giving a fine demonstration of this in Italy. We shouldn't make the mistake, however, of extending the comparison and trying to gauge the invasion of western Europe by the operations on the Italian peninsula.

While the Gustav line, the Adolf Hitler line, and the various other German defenses in Italy have been

'ANY LANDING YOU WALK AWAY FROM IS A GOOD ONE'

PLANES BLAST MARCUS ISLAND

Jap Radio Rays Carrier-Based Aircraft Carries Out Raids

(By Associated Press)
Marcus island, 1,180 miles southeast of Tokyo, was heavily attacked Saturday and Sunday by a carrier-based force, a Japanese broadcast disclosed today. The worried enemy, added Berlin radio, sounded air raid alarms throughout north and east Japan.

"Enemy naval units," presumably Pacific fleet ships under command of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, approached from the east and launched a two-day aerial blow against the small but strategically-situated island. A Tokyo broadcast added that 32 raiding planes were shot down.

The broadcast was the first word of such a stroke—first against Marcus since Sept. 1 last year—and recalled that the Japanese were the first to disclose last week's carrier raid against Soerabaja, Java.

The island is some 700 miles east of the Japanese-held Bonin islands, 700 miles northwest of Wake and almost midway between Tokyo and the Marshalls.

Closer to Tokyo
Tokyo was approached from still another direction, and much closer than Marcus island. A Liberator bomber Thursday struck at Shimushiri, a Kurile island 400 miles from Nippon's main islands, thus achieving the closest approach.

U. S. Leases Much Of Its Big Fleet

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 22.—The United States—now the owner of the world's largest Navy—has leased almost 1,400 naval craft to the British under lend-lease.

They include more than 30 convoy-escort aircraft carriers, destroyers, and merchant ships, a lend-lease report showed today, and are in addition to $200,000,000 worth of landing barges, PT boats and other smaller craft sent to the United Kingdom.

The bigger vessels which sail from American docks under their own power are leased to the Allies for the duration of the war. Title remains with the United States.

Coal Truck Upsets

A coal truck driven by Melvin Barthlow, 47, of Petersburg, overturned at the intersection of Routes 7 and 14, east of Columbiana, at noon Saturday.

Barthlow lost control of the truck as he approached the intersection and the vehicle swerved and overturned in a ditch on the right side of the road. The truck was damaged slightly and the coal dumped, but the driver escaped injury.

U. S. Lend-Lease Shipments Rise For European Showdown

BY HOWARD FLIEGER

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Lend-lease arms and equipment to power a three-day invasion smash at Europe are moving out of this country at a steadily growing speed, President Roosevelt told Congress today.

"United Nations forces are now about to strike new and mighty blows at Nazi-occupied Europe from offensive bases in the west, the south and the east," the President said as he submitted the 15th report on lend-lease operations.

"They are armed with the most powerful weapons that the combined resources and ingenuity of the United Nations can produce...."

Through lend-lease we have made certain that every man in the forces of the other United Nations who goes into battle beside an American fighting man has what he needs to hit the common enemy as hard as possible.

The report shows $24,225,000,000 worth of equipment, services and supplies have gone from this country's lend-lease arsenal—nearly three-fourths to Britain and Russia and much of it in recent months.

"China is being helped to the utmost of our ability," Mr. Roosevelt said. But the report itself shows the supplies being flown into that country—already record-breaking—in terms of air transport—are only a trickle against the flood equipment being massed before the Nazi front.

FIVE ARMY PLANES GROUNDED HERE

Five Army basic training planes caused a mild sensation in Salem and a traffic jam on Route 62, a mile and a half north of the city limits, Saturday night when they circled the city for almost a half an hour and then made forced landings on the Bricker farm at about 8 p. m., damaging one plane so that it was grounded here over the weekend.

Army engineers are in Salem today replacing the propeller that was bent slightly when the plane nosed over after running into a newly ploughed strip of the field behind the Brooks No. 3 farmhouse.

The five planes were enroute from Buffalo, N. Y., to Columbus on a routine training flight when the pilots lost radio connections with their base and decided to make a forced landing here until the electrical storm passed over. The other four ships landed successfully.

The pilot and passenger of the other plane were unhurt. The other four planes later took off for Youngstown Municipal airport to await further orders.

A guard was placed around the plane Saturday night by the state highway patrol and its auxiliary and they were relieved Sunday by a group from the Civil Air patrol in Youngstown.

Capt. J. Eatherington of Pittsburgh is in charge of the repair unit here today.

Pvt. William B. Rutter, of New-garden st., who was wounded in Italy, was one of 39 wounded overseas veterans from Ohio who arrived at the Army's new Crile general hospital in near Cleveland Sunday.

ELKTON YOUTH, 9, DROWNING VICTIM

Glenn Shearer Steps Into Deep Water While Wading In Pit

Glenn G. Shearer, nine-year-old son of George Shearer, E. D. 3, Lisbon, was drowned while wading at the site of a coal stripping project on his farm home near Elkton at 7:45 p. m. Sunday.

The boy, who was unable to swim, and two companions were wading in a water-filled pond when he stepped off a ledge into the deeper part.

His companions summoned the lad's father who searched for the body and recovered it after about 15 minutes in shoulder-deep water.

Two tanks of oxygen were used by Dr. Seward Harris of Lisbon in a vain effort to revive the boy.

The youth was born in Fairfield township, Dec. 17, 1934, and had lived on the farm near Elkton about a year, going there from Columbiana. He was a third grade student at the Elkton school and a member of the Jerusalem Lutheran church at Columbiana.

Surviving, besides the father, are a brother, Kenneth R. Shearer of Middletown and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Eichler of Elkton, Dorothy May and Margaret J. Shearer, at home.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Fry funeral home in Columbiana in charge of Rev. C. J. Sutorius. Burial will be in Columbiana cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 tonight.

Yanks Entering Terracina, Nazi Bastion, Driven Back

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 22.—American patrols who entered Terracina, German anchor on the Italian west coast, have been driven back, it was announced today.

U. S. troops established a line 4,000 to 5,000 yards (from 2 1/4 to 3 miles) northeast of Terracina as the Germans threw in fresh troops, headquarters declared, and the Germans were reported fiercely resisting a renewed American thrust southwest of Pico in the center of the front.

The Germans rushed reinforcements from the north into the sagging coastal line against the Americans, and Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's troops quickly captured 100 prisoners from them.

Headquarters declared the Germans now have 17 divisions committed against the main offensive and the Anzio beachhead, and have "nothing left in reserve south of Rome."

French troops toward the center, took lost and then recaptured today Monte Leucio west of Pico on the road from Pontecorvo. Canadians penetrated the Hitler line northeast of Pontecorvo, on the lower edge of the Liri valley, piercing barbed wire entanglements, headquarters said.

Grass Seed Comes Up — But It's Radishes

(By Associated Press)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 22.—Groundkeepers at Harvard university re-seeded the yard lawn two weeks ago and look what they have now—hundreds and hundreds of hardy radish plants.

"Looks like a spontaneous Victory garden," said the groundkeepers as they began clearing the plot today.

"Don't know how it happened," the chief groundsman added, "but the one who scattered those seeds certainly knew his radishes. They're as fine a lot as I've seen in a long time."

Groundkeepers couldn't imagine how it happened but they did say, without indicting anyone, that 2,000 young Navy officers are living in Harvard dormitories and there are known pranksters in the student body.

Report U. S. Troops Enter Terracina

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 22.—U. S. troops have entered the Germans' coastal anchor of Terracina, 24 miles from the Anzio beachhead, it was announced today as the mountainous Hitler line cracked under Allied advances all along the front.

To the northwest, one bastion guarding the Liri valley approach to Rome was toppled and another put under siege, while Fifth army men hammered toward the central pivot town of Pico.

Only light German rearguards including non-combat units defended Terracina—coastal end of the Nazis' third southern defense wall—and beyond lay the pontine marshes and the Fifth army troops massed on the Anzio beachhead. The fleeing Nazis hid their movements around the eastern flank of that beachhead with smoke screens.

Poles of the Eighth army burst into Piedmonte on the north side of the Liri valley west of Cassino, and were mopping up trapped Germans.

At the lower edge of the valley, the Allies punched into the outskirts of Pontecorvo, and in the center of the Italian front cut the Pontecorvo-Pico road, seizing Monte Leucio, and driving toward Pico itself. Pico is the swing point of the line to Terracina, hastily-manned when the Fifth army crushed the southern flank of the first Hitler defenses.

(The German command, suggesting Pico might already have fallen, broadcast that Allied troops had broken into the town repeatedly, but had been thrown back. A Swiss broadcast said Pontecorvo had been taken by the Eighth army.)

Terracina was entered in a swift nine-mile American advance on the west coast.

Just ahead of the advancing United States forces lay the Pontine marshes, parts of which have been flooded by the Germans and made impassable.

RAF BOMBERS HIT DUISBURG DURING NIGHT

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, May 22.—Flying Fortresses bombed the German submarine center of Kiel and U. S. liberators pounded German fortifications in the Pas-De-Calais area of France today after a night in which 750 heavy British bombers saturated the major inland Nazi port of Duisburg with 2,800 tons of explosives.

The double-barreled daylight blow carried the newest Allied aerial prelude to the western invasion past 80 hours of continuous day-night attacks.

Up to 250 Flying Fortresses and the same number of Liberators, each group protected by swarms of American fighters, struck the twin assault.

Hannover, a rail and rubber center, and a German airfield in Belgium, were other British targets of the night.

Thirty British planes were lost in the night attacks.

All Transports Attacked
In all some 3,000 Allied planes, most of them fighters, sprayed nearly every moving piece of Nazi transport sighted in western Europe yesterday with cannon and machinegun fire. These fighter sweeps and the RAF night blows dovetailed into the Allied strategy aimed at crippling Germany's movement of troops and supplies to combat the impending invasion from the west.

Duisburg, Germany's greatest inland port, had been bombed 61 times previously, of which seven were major attacks. It last was hit hard May 12, 1943, and following that attack, a record at the time, the air ministry announced, the entire commercial and administrative center of the city of 300,000 had been laid in ruins.

The attack on Duisburg last night was described by the Air Ministry as "very heavy." While Duisburg was being pummeled other British bomber formations cracked down on objectives in Hannover, raided a Nazi airfield in Belgium and carried out extensive mine laying in waters frequented by enemy shipping.

The loss of 30 night bombers was the greatest sustained by the RAF since May 3.

Sky Battles Follow
Airmen back from Duisburg reported fierce combats over the city. They had little opposition on the way to the target, however, and the bombs started plunging down before the German fighter packs arrived. One pilot said the Nazis pursued homeward-bound bombers beyond the coast.

Light units of the riddled German navy lurking in the English channel in anticipation of coming events felt the weight of Allied air might once more when RAF typhoon fighter-bombers and Spitfire fighters flew high-through intense flak to attack a half-dozen Nazi naval vessels sighted near Cap Frehel near St. Malo last night.

Also attending were Rudy Linder, Matthew Mellicette, William Wagner, Richard Dennis and Elwood Hammell.

The conference elected W. Ronald Ansley of Columbus, president of the Ohio organization, and Warren Smith of Canton as the other directors. Ansley is automatically the third director by virtue of his presidency in the state unit.

Driver Unhurt As Car Knocks Down Light Pole

A car, driven by Arthur Edling, 16, of R. D. 2, Salem, overturned on Newgarden st., just inside the city limits, after Edling swerved to avoid a collision with a car that pulled out in front of him, according to police. The driver was uninjured.

The car slipped on the wet pavement and clipped off a city light pole before it overturned on the sidewalk. The other car failed to stop after the accident, police said.

Street lighting service was interrupted in the west section of the city until after midnight, when the damaged pole was replaced.

SOMETHING IS OUT OF ORDER

Five weeks of tumult in the sedition trial of 29 persons came to a climax when the opening statement of the prosecution was interrupted with catcalls and interruptions from the defendants and their lawyers. Perhaps this sort of thing goes down all right in the phrenetic atmosphere of Washington where the trial is being held, but elsewhere it leaves the citizenry puzzled and queasy. No ordinary defendant in this country would be able to get away with one tenth of the burlesque antics staged in the Washington court by the defendants and their counsel.

Obviously, the intent is to produce, if possible, the circumstances of a mistrial and make a farce of the whole proceeding, a scheme which the government has made feasible with its strange decision to try all 29 of the alleged seditionists at once. Something is out of order when a trial on the grave charge of sedition turns into a heckling contest.

ITALY IS A LESSON

It was only yesterday, as time goes on hard campaigns, that Italy was a national symbol of despair. Things there were going badly. The wisdom of the campaign was in question.

Overnight, the character of the action changed. It suddenly was plain that the Italian campaign still contained vast potentialities of embarrassment for Germany, and it was plain that the bombing raids on Balkan targets from Italian fields were hitting the vulnerable points in the German oil supply organization based on Rumania.

Within a few days, Allied troops had gathered tremendous forward momentum and the Germans' backward momentum was increasing in inverse proportion. Occupation of Rome again became a lively possibility. The relief of the forces on the Anzio beachhead was in sight. Allied morale was given a lift, and it is reasonable to assume that German morale was hurt seriously at the moment when Propaganda Minister Goebbels was most anxious to keep it at high tension. Italy has been a lesson: Never jump at long-range conclusions on short-sighted evidence.

I AM AN AMERICAN!

There could be no better way of celebrating "I Am An American Day" in 1944 than to pause a few minutes in front of the honor roll of citizens doing their part in the armed services. They are all there—all the Americans—the citizens with names from every part of the earth—the citizens with white skins, black skins, brown skins—the finest representatives of a population that has drawn its strength from all races, all nationalities and all creeds.

Some were born here and always have been Americans. Others became Americans by conviction, and it is to them that national citizenship day, established by congress in 1940, gives special honor. They have become part of a country held together by adherence to common principles of humanity which stand above all artificial divisions. They, have taken their place in a brotherhood of belief in tolerance and the natural dignity of all men.

Preservation of a society so founded can be secured only by continuous effort; there always will be some trying to undermine it. By resisting them, by rising above them, Americans gain their strength through better understanding of their common purpose. The purpose is clear in a few minutes before the honor roll of the men and women serving in the front ranks of national defense. They are all there—all the human beings working together in the brotherhood of Americanism—alloyed by something infinitely stronger than anything which seeks to put them asunder.

A GREAT DECISION IN HISTORY

Historic perspective suggests, though it cannot prove, that the outcome of World War II will be one of the great decisions in the record of human affairs. Invasion of Europe will contribute to the decision, but will not be decisive in itself. It will be, in this respect, like the great battles of World War I, which were only potentially decisive; their effect was lost in the failure of the peace following the end of the war.

But if the military decision expected to be made this summer in Europe is carried through to its proper conclusion in the events which follow, the Germanic influence which became dominant in Europe in the middle of the 19th century, made its first bid for world influence in 1914 and flared into renewed violence in 1939 will be destroyed. If, then, the companion influence, as adopted and practiced by the Japanese in Asia, beginning with the defeat of Russia early in the century, can be checked and discredited, that undoubtedly would constitute one of the few clean-cut decisions in all history.

Sir Edward S. Creasy, English historian, compiled a list of 15 decisive battles of the world in 1851, but time has discredited many of his conclusions. His study is important now chiefly as a demonstration that turning points in human affairs are only incidentally concerned with battles; that the results of battles may be less important in the long run than the trends which produced military conflicts and continued when the conflicts were ended. It is significant, however, that Sir Edward's list was preponderantly one of invasions that were turned back. Only those persons who are blindly optimistic overlook the consequences of possible defeat in the attempt to destroy German influence in Europe. Allied failure would mark perhaps an even more decisive turning point than victory, a fact of which we may be sure the Germans are keenly aware.

The Germans realize more clearly than their enemies that 1944 is a year of final decision in their long struggle to dominate civilization. They are fighting as one nation against a coalition of nations. They are fighting, moreover, as part of a continuous campaign to attain dominance—a campaign that began three-quarters of a century ago when the Prussians defeated the French at Sedan. Their natural resources and manpower have been exhausted in war and preparations for war; militarism has been their single purpose. If they cannot win in 1944, they are through forever, unless a shortsighted peace encourages them to try again.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, May 23

THE LUNAR transits for this day point to a fairly pleasant and progressive state of affairs, with business, although not neglected, relegated to the background by considerations of a more personal nature. This may involve family celebrations of a romantic or sentimental aspect, with social, cultural or professional interests more engaging than the practical or commonplace. However, in the latter the personal prestige and popularity holds definite weight, and should be pushed to advantage in the direction of cherished ambitions or ends. In all affairs be alert to petty deceptions and shun doubtful intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which the interest may be concentrated on matters of a personal rather than business nature, although finances and credit are under expansive rule. Push in this direction with precaution and vigilance, as there are threats of small treacheries or intrigues. In romantic, social and domestic relations there may be pleasant parties or celebrations that should enhance the personal popularity and prestige. With care and diligence it should be a year of growth, fair fortune and happiness.

A child born on this day should have ambitions and talents and professional skills to attain them, especially with the influence of its attractive and warm personality. It should be popular and influential and have a fortunate and happy life.

Within a year we may be faced with a shortage instead of a surplus of pork. A drought on the ranges where a record number of cattle are feeding, could precipitate a market movement of avalanche proportions, a big temporary supply certain to be followed by a shortage.—Edward O'Neill, president American Farm Bureau federation.

After the last war we lost the peace by not pursuing the German nation that she was beaten. We Czechs have been neighbors of Germany for a thousand years and there is nothing anybody can teach us about their bellicose qualities. Jan Masaryk, deputy prime minister of Czechoslovakia.

The Allies must be ready with their relief plans if millions are to be saved from starvation, destitution, and pestilence.—Archbishop of York.

Perhaps, if we are very successful against Germany, it (Pacific war) will end in 1945. But your guess is as good as mine.—New Zealand Prime Minister Pete Fraser.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Treatment of Skin Ills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MOST SKIN diseases, it would be a good guess, are first treated at home, by the patient himself or some member of the household. The favorite remedies are some sort of greases or ointments—zinc oxide ointment for soothing itching and inflamed eruptions; am-

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

niated mercury for pus infections of the skin like acne or impetigo or hair follicle or shaving infections; mentholated or camphorated ointments for hives and chapping and sunburn; sulfa ointments for infections; and to get away from ointments tincture of iodine or mercurchrome for cuts and bruises.

When these don't work, and you go to the expert dermatologist you will find him depending more on X-ray, radium, electrolysis, diathermy, drugs by vein and vaccines. It is natural for him to use these more complicated methods because he probably knows you have already been using the standard local remedies at home. And here is a point to emphasize—if he gives you a medicine for local application it will likely be in the form of a lotion, that is a watery or liquid suspension rather than an ointment.

All Good Remedies
Now all of these remedies are good. For household use the medicine closet should certainly contain a zinc oxide preparation for soothing and antiseptic, mercury for pus conditions and iodine for cuts and infections, and perhaps camphor ice. But there are a good many times when the household dermatologist needs to be restrained in their use and there are a lot of things not to do for skin diseases that he doesn't always remember.

One is that very tendency noted above to stick to ointments rather than lotions. An ointment gums over the surface of a skin eruption, keeps the air out and the recalcitrations in and often adds to the damage. A lotion can be dabbed on and will stay in place just as well as the ointment, besides lets the skin breathe and draws secretions to the surface where they can be wiped off. Zinc oxide in an ointment doesn't get to exert its effect as well as calamine in a lotion, and the action of the calamine is just about the same as zinc oxide. Ointments are all right in their place, but that place is not wholesale and universal use.

A tendency of anyone treating the skin, and this includes many doctors, is to over-treat, either by treating with applications that are too strong or using them too much. This is particularly true of poison ivy or any similar acute dermatitis from contact that is in an angry, inflamed condition. Here some of the medicaments applied does benzedrine sulphate have on the body?

Answer: Yes, it always indicates infection. Many people regret having ascribed such things to nerves. Benzedrine sulphate stimulates the brain, produces wakefulness and mental stimulation, raises blood pressure and, applied locally, shrinks mucous membranes, as of the nose.

A. G.—What function does the spleen have in the body? Can a person live with the spleen removed? Can a suspected enlarged spleen be detected by X-ray?

Answer: The only certainly known function of the spleen is to destroy antiquated blood cells. But there are numerous areas of splenic tissue—accessory spleens—scattered throughout the body which perform the same function, and the spleen has often been removed with no bad result, the patient living a long time. The X-ray visualizes the spleen only when a contrast medium—thoracotrast—is injected into the blood.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. # A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

The stocky figure of Inspector Grange loomed in the doorway. He walked into the room, followed by his men. With the arrival of the police, a crowd began to gather in the corridor. Grange issued a few brief orders and his men went about their routine duties. He greeted Flagg and Argus, before he went over to examine the body.

"Well, Mr. Flagg," he said at last, "let's have it. What are you doing here?"

The model agent repeated what he had told Argus and showed the inspector his message from Cynthia Lane. His story didn't vary.

"All right," directed Grange. "Wait outside, Mr. Flagg."

"What's your version, Steele?" Grange asked after the model agent left the room. Argus explained in detail. Grange listened attentively.

When Argus had finished, he looked a shaggy eyebrow at him and said: "Too bad she didn't get to write that letter. It might simplify matters."

"Well, for the sake of argument, I'm letting it be noised around that she did write that letter," Argus emphasized. "I just mentioned it to Flagg. Said it was in the mail and I'd have it tomorrow. I thought that if the murderer got wind of it, he might show his hand."

"Not a bad idea," said Grange. "But it might be a little tough on you if the party starts to get rough."

"I'll risk it."

"How did Flagg take it?" the Inspector asked.

"Like a mill pond on a still summer day. Nary a ripple. But that guy plays poker—you never can tell."

"But why should Flagg want to kill her?" Grange queried.

"I don't know that he did. But when some one starts fooling with blackmail—"

"Blackmail? You think Miss Lane was blackmailing some one?" Argus told him about Dorry's conversation with Cynthia.

"And, in case you're interested, Inspector, Dorry's married to young Bill Carstairs."

Grange's brow contracted. He beckoned a red-headed plainclothes man. "Mike," he said, "I want you to find Mrs. William Carstairs, Jr., and bring her here for questioning. What's she look like, Steele?"

Argus described her and added: "She was sitting at Table 19."

"O. K. I'll find her," volunteered the city detective, and ambled off.

"That message Flagg said he got," Grange asked, "do you think it was on the level?"

"I asked the operator to see if a call had been made from this room. The bell captain's checking on which boy made the delivery."

"Strange how the Carstairs family keeps coming into the picture," Grange mused. "Ever since you told me about Bill phoning Syria, we've been trying to locate him. But no soap! No one seems to have seen him since he left the Penguin Club, Monday night. Found out that his old man has an apartment in the same building Syria did."

Argus was about to make a remark when one of Grange's men approached, holding out a small revolver.

"This must be the gun that killed her, Chief," he said. "It's a .32. We found it among the clothes on the bed."

The medical examiner was putting away his things. Grange went over to speak to him. Argus heard the words, "Heart. Instantaneous. Bullet .32."

"What time did you hear the shot?" Grange asked Argus.

"Approximately 4:45. I happened to glance at my watch just before it happened."

"And you didn't see any one in the corridor?"

"No. This corridor isn't used very much. I understand. The models' dressing room is across the way. As I see it, the murderer must have left by that door over there," he indicated it with a nod, "or I should have seen him. There is no number on that side. I suppose this room was once part of a suite and, when they chopped it up, they marked only this side."

The red-headed detective whom Grange had dispatched to find Dorry Carstairs poked his head in the door.

"I've got her here, Chief," he said. "Do you want me to bring her in?"

"No," answered Grange. "I'll talk to her outside. Clear the corridor. Come on, Steele, we'll shoot her a few questions."

Dorry looked small and frightened. Grange spoke to her in a kindly voice.

"I'm sorry to trouble you, Mrs. Carstairs, but I'll have to ask you a few questions. I believe you were acquainted with Cynthia Lane?"

"Yes, Inspector," Dorry replied in a weak voice.

"Miss Lane has been shot," he said, grimly. "Murdered!" Dorry gasped and put her hand to her mouth.

"You were seen coming out of her room," Grange went on, "just before the fashion show started, and Mr. Steele happened to overhear your conversation with Miss Lane. You mentioned something about—blackmail."

"I—I was overwrought. I didn't know what I was saying," she shot Argus a pleading look.

"But you must've had a reason," said Grange. "Was Miss Lane blackmailing you?"

"No. I didn't mean anything. I—I—"

Grange changed his tone. "Where were you at five minutes to five?"

"I was at my table, I suppose. I've been there ever since the fashion show began."

"Your father-in-law was acquainted with Miss Lane," put in Argus. "In fact, we were talking to her only this morning in Mr. Sturgis' studio. Something about a contract to pose for his catsup. Mr. Carstairs didn't seem too enthusiastic, but I learned later that Miss Lane had received her contract. That couldn't have had anything to do with this blackmail business, could it?"

"I don't know what you're talking about," Dorry said. She seemed to be struggling to regain her composure. "I didn't kill Miss Lane. If that's what you want to know. You can find out by questioning my friends. I haven't left my table. The other matter is—private and I can't see why I should answer any more questions."

"Where's your husband this afternoon, Mrs. Carstairs?" Grange asked.

"I don't know," replied Dorry. "He's probably with his father. They had a business appointment. Now, may I join my friends, Inspector?"

"I'll come with you," declared Grange.

"I'd like to speak with you before you go, Inspector," Argus said, taking him aside. "I noticed some dried green paint on the hem of Cynthia Lane's mink coat. And there's something else..." He told him what Ellen had said about Syria's week ends in New Jersey.

"Thanks, Steele," Grange murmured. "I'll look into it."

"Yes," said Argus, "and you might pull that letter gag I used on Flagg out of your hat, kick it around and see what happens."

"I will, and I'll find out about that gun Mrs. Carstairs was carrying the night Syria was shot," he walked off.

Argus found Ellen standing farther down the corridor, talking to Pierre Sturgis.

"Oh, Argus!" she ejaculated when she saw him. "What happened? We've heard so many conflicting stories." Argus told them.

"Have they any idea who did it?" Sturgis asked.

"No. Mr. Sturgis, you know Syria Verne rather well. Do you happen to know where she went in New Jersey on Saturdays?"

"No," replied the photographer, looking surprised. "She told me once that she had an aunt over there."

"An aunt? You don't know where I could reach her, do you?" Argus asked.

"Why, no; come to think of it, she never mentioned her name to me, nor where she lived."

"Well," said the detective, "I guess she'll read about it in the papers and show up sooner or later." A policeman approached them.

"Mr. Sturgis?" he asked. "Inspector Grange would like to see you."

"Me?" the photographer asked. "Oh, very well. You'll excuse me?" He bowed to Ellen and Argus.

"What do you say we go some place and have a drink and a steak?" Argus invited Ellen.

"But one of those policemen told us we were all to stay. And besides, don't you want to know what the police discover?"

"This is going to take a long time and I'm hungry. Come on, red head, and I'll tell you all about it in the taxi, on the way."

I'M A WELDER...

"My children are all in high school, so it was easy for me to take a war job. I learned my job in a few weeks."

I'M A GRINDER...

"Our only son is stationed in the Pacific so I took a war job. I do precision grinding—a cinch for any woman who can use her hands!"

I DO WIRING...

"We have no children so a war job was a 'natural' for me. I do wiring. It's both easy and pays very good wages."

QUESTION BOX

- Q. I've never worked in my life. Do you want me?
- A. Certainly, if you are prepared to take a job and stick to it. Don't waste everybody's time by "just seeing what it's like." Thousands of women who have never worked before are doing a good job today.
- Q. I don't know a thing about machinery. Can they use me?
- A. They can and they will. It's easier to learn—not much more complicated than operating a cleaner. Some plants will fire you right away and teach you while you work. Others require training before starting to work. In either case, training is FREE.
- Q. I'm over 45—is that too old to take a war job?
- A. Not at all, if you are in good health, willing to adjust yourself to learn quickly.
- Q. What is it like in a war plant?
- A. A war plant is a busy, noisy place where there's plenty of hard work to be done. So don't take a war job unless you have a serious determination to stick with it. The first few weeks are the hardest!

Alice Ruth Vincent Marries Sergt. Royden Piper Saturday

Open church was observed at the wedding of Miss Alice Ruth Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert S. Vincent of E. Third st., to Sergt. S. Royden Piper, stationed at Casper, Wyo., in the Presbyterian church at 4 p. m. Saturday.

Dr. R. D. Walter officiated at the double ring ceremony which was attended by a large number of friends and relatives. Palms and ferns were banked at the chancel with tall seven-branch candelabra holding lighted white tapers.

Music for the ceremony included vocal numbers, "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" (Malotte) sung by Miss Latzer Mortz of Cleveland, a Kent university classmate of the bride. Organ numbers played by Miss Marguerite Vincent were "At Dawning," "Eventide," "I Love You Truly," "The Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" and "The Wedding March" by Mendelssohn. Miss Anna Cook accompanied the vocalist.

Attendants were Miss Mary Lou Vincent, sister of the bride, and Pvt. Kenneth Marty, Camp McCoy, Wis. Usherettes were Misses Lorraine Adams and Katherine Ressler.

PRIZE WINNING WAR BOND MESSAGE!

This advertisement presents the second prize winning editorial in a nationwide contest among high school and college publications, conducted by the Education Section of the War Finance Division in cooperation with the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, as part of the Treasury Department's Schools-at-War program. It was written by Loren Spademan, Highland Park Senior High School, Highland Park, Michigan, for the SPECTATOR and was selected from thousands of editorials which were submitted.

This is your doing -

In the dark off New Britain the davits creak as another landing boat goes over the side. At Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, a surgeon raises his scalpel to begin a delicate brain operation. Somewhere in England an American airman gives a final tug at his parachute straps and climbs aboard for Hamburg and points East.

This is your doing. For one-thirtieth of a second the $75 you put out for a $100 war bond is paying for the war. It's paying the salaries of all the generals and all the admirals and all the buck privates. It's paying the wife of the sergeant in the German prison camp.

Your money is buying all the gasoline and oil, all the bread and milk, the penicillin, oranges, ammunition, hot coffee, the lima beans, peanuts, shoe leather, and elbow grease used by our army in all of the 40 odd countries where it is stationed.

You're paying Sinebaldo Lelli* out at Chrysler's, Bob Mestach* over at Excello, the janitor at Willow Run, and Dean George Altenburg, who has left the halls of our Junior College to train fliers out Mount Clemens way.

For one-thirtieth of a second the war is your responsibility. It rests entirely on your shoulders. Snap your fingers and think of all the things going on all over the world while sound is in your ears.

It's an extremely short time, to be sure, but it's the thirtieths of seconds and hundredths of seconds that are turning Berlin under and chasing the Japs from New Britain.

Stop Awhile-- And Smile

(By Associated Press)
MAJURO ATOLL — Majuro's Fifth Column consisted of one alternate-toothed Korean, who was here when the atoll was occupied.

He was all friendliness when the Americans were within earshot, but when talking to natives, he told them of the awful punishment the Japanese would mete out to those helping the Americans. Apparently, it never occurred to him that the natives would tell the Americans what he had said.

But he isn't here any more. He shook hands with the Marine sergeant who came to get him. He bowed deeply. "Me," he said, "real American. American, yes."

NO QUARTER GIVEN IN BATTLE OF THE FLATS

MEXICO CITY—Mexican landlords, forbidden by presidential decree from raising rents or terminating leases, are trying desperately to drive tenants out so that they can get more money on new leases. Knowing that an apartment that rented a year ago for $40 a month now commands $70, landlords have put "devils," a type of plug, into water pipes to reduce the flow to a trickle. Some cut off the water entirely except for two hours a day. In better class apartments, janitors were instructed not to make minor repairs or clean halls and stairways. The embattled tenants retaliated by sweeping the halls themselves. They also appealed to the government with or without the flow of water to apartments.

BOMBERS PAVED WAY FOR DRIVE

SERIOUS DAMAGE to German communications systems caused by U. S. bombers prior to the great Italian drive is believed to be hampering movements of enemy supplies to the front. Maj. Gen. John Cannon, tactical air commander in Italy, stated recently that no trains had moved through the Po Valley to the Gustav line since late March. If train movements have been seriously hampered, the two Rome highways must be relied on by the enemy—and the Allies now hammer on these. The map shows key areas bombed from the Brenner Pass southward, and the arcs indicate the range in which bombers have operated. (International)

Seabee Ingenuity Crops Out During Emergency Period

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON — The Seabees, the Navy's construction corps, have long been known for their ingenuity and resourcefulness. No matter what the emergency, they find an answer to it. Some of their experiences follow:

The Navy Seabees, Machinist's Mate 2/c Dewey L. White of Ruleville, Miss., and Machinist's Mate 2/c Leonard Friedman of Brooklyn, N. Y., were faced with a transmission which put their sorely-needed bulldozer out of commission. In the face of enemy fire, the two men kept the giant machine operating by shifting gears with an ordinary screwdriver.

The Seabees had landed on Treasury Island behind New Zealand storm troops and started to work on a new Allied airfield even before enemy opposition had been overcome.

Seabee Shipfitter 1/c Frederick N. McElwee of Decatur, Miss., specializes in conserving sheet metal. Procuring empty shell case from the scrap heap, he burned the ends off with a torch, welded the casings together and made a stovepipe for use in naval headquarters. He then converted the remaining ends into excellent ash trays.

One Seabee battalion which has made the rounds of islands in the South Pacific has an unusual record for being hard to hit. In more than 50 air attacks in the Coral Sea, Guadalcanal, Bonika, the Russell Islands, Segi Point, and Munda, the Seabees did not suffer a single casualty.

Carpenter's Mate 1/c Thomas E. Halsey of Indianapolis, Ind., was not discouraged by the lack of putty when the seams of a company boat urgently needed caulking. Deciding to make his own, Halsey combined fine white beach sand, heavy paint pigment, linseed oil, and the wood of rotten coconut stumps and the result was a kind of putty.

The boat has been in use now for several months and hasn't leaked yet!

Another Seabee battalion on a lonely Pacific isle discovered to their dismay that the excessive rainfall and high humidity were extremely hard on their canvas tents. It seemed to make little difference whether the tents were pitched in the open or in the jungle—they still fell apart in a few months.

Since no new tents were available, the Seabees set to work to find a substitute. The men noticed that the palm-thatched native huts despite their crude workmanship, held up for more than a year and decided to build some for themselves.

With a few revisions, such as floorings and the use of nails instead of jungle vines, the Seabees created several barracks-sized native-type huts and loudly proclaimed their comfort over regulation framed tents and Quonset huts.

Finley Urges Residents Be Insulated In Summer

Scores of Salem residents are acting on the Office of War Information's suggestion "Prepare homes now for next winter," according to R. B. Finley of the local office of the Youngstown Home Insulation Co., 132 S. Broadway, contractors here for Johns-Manville blown rock wool home insulation.

"Farsighted home owners are taking steps right now to prevent recurrence of last winter's conditions and are heeding the government's plea for fuel conservation through the insulation of attics and walls and the purchase of other heat saving equipment such as storm windows and weatherstripping," Finley said.

Many owners whose homes were insulated last fall reported fuel savings ranging as high as 40 per cent.

The important thing right now is to schedule jobs before cold weather starts. And the sooner his order for insulation is placed, the more certain the home owner will be of maximum fuel savings and an increased measure of comfort during the winter," said Finley. ## Misalignment Is One Cause of Tire Wear

L. A. McQueen, vice president of the General Tire & Rubber Co., who just returned from Washington, D. C., is not at all optimistic on the outlook of passenger car tires for 1944. "It is very doubtful," he said, "if the industry reaches the 15,000,000 figure for passenger car tires this year."

Misalignment will cause tires to be worn out faster than any other condition, except under inflation which causes the side walls to break down.

Either condition is easy to avoid. Regular attention to inflation and regular inspections at Matt Klein's specialized garage on Newgarden st., for alignment and prompt adjustments if necessary will result in thousands of additional miles to any set of tires.

More People Turning To Ice Refrigeration

More and more people are returning to the use of ice refrigeration, according to recent surveys. Here in Salem the Citizens Ice & Coal Co. finds it is servicing more ice refrigerators every year and the demand has already shown a marked increase this spring.

Many experiments have been made that prove pure ice is as perfect a refrigerant as can be found. It not only keeps the temperature at the correct degree but also keeps the humidity correct for vegetables instead of actually robbing the vegetables, fruits and meats of the natural juices they contain.

Ice is just as pure as the water from which it is made. At the Citizens Ice & Coal Co. plant the water is pumped from deep-drilled wells and then treated so that it is positively free from any kind of foreign substance.

Murphy's Four First Places Pace Akron North To Track Win

Boardman and McKinley Take Second and Third For Surprises Of Meet

Akron North's Johnny Murphy practically walked away with the district track title all by himself here Saturday as he placed first in four events—the first man to compile such a record in a district meet here since 1926—and earned 24 of his team's 40 points against a field of 17 other track squads.

Boardman and Canton McKinley pulled the other two surprises of the day as they won out for second and third places with 39 and 25½ points, respectively. Akron East copped fourth with 25 points and Salem was fifth with 20½ points.

Others finished in this order: Ravenna 16; Louisville 14½; Akron South 13; Warren 12; Akron Buchtel 7½; East Palestine 6; Youngstown Raven 5; Lehigh 4; Garfield 4; Massillon, Struthers, Niles and East Liverpool failed to score.

Salem Enters Finals
Salem's fifth place was a little disappointing to most Quaker fans who were expecting at least a third spot. However, in placing men for the finals at Columbus next week, Salem came out with seven places, second only to the winning North team, which earned nine spots. Johnny Murphy, of course, has four of those nine places, so Salem actually is sending more men than any of the other schools in the meet here.

Tony Hoover proved to be the star of the day for the Quakers. The diminutive distance man came through with a third in the mile run and a fourth in the half mile for five points. Flick Entrikey won a trip to Columbus with seconds in the 220 yard low hurdles and placed fifth in the high hurdles. He won five points but doesn't earn the entry in the high hurdles as just four places from each event go to Columbus.

Salem placed six men and a four-man relay team for the finals next week in Columbus. Hoover won two places, third in the mile and fourth in the half mile. Ferko got fourth in the 440-yard dash, Entrikey second in the low hurdles, and Charlie Dunlap tied for second in the high jump.

Shea Second In Pole Vault
Bob Shea pulled a mild upset by taking a tie for the second place in the pole vault. Shea came through excellently and surpassed his usual vault to nab the second place honors while Entrikey, usually the best Quaker vaulter, failed to place.

Charlie Dunlap, who has leaped 20 feet eight inches, failed to place.

TIGERS WIN TWO SUNDAY, STEALING LEAGUE LIMELIGHT

Six Straight Puts Detroit In First Division of American Loop

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Detroit Tigers nudged the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals out of the major league limelight yesterday. The Bengals swept a double header from Washington to run their winning streak to six straight and climb into the American League first division.

Dizzy Trout and Hal Newhouse turned in two fine pitching performances to whip the Senators 2 to 1 and 7 to 1, at Washington in the latest development of their road winning streak that started in Philadelphia last Wednesday night.

The Yankees twice beat the St. Louis Browns at Yankee stadium, before 59,191 (54,725 paid), largest crowd of the season. The Yanks took the opener, 4 to 3, in 12 innings when George Caster forced home the winning run by walking Johnny Lindell with the bases loaded. The nightcap was comparatively easy for the Bronx bombers, 8 to 1.

Cards Spank Giants
The Cardinals, breezing along in the National League top spot, walloped the New York Giants at St. Louis 10 to 3 in the first game, but had to be content with a split when the Giants took the nightcap 7 to 5.

Charley Grimm's Chicago Cubs surprised by blasting the Boston Braves, 15 to 1 and 14 to 3 at Wrigley field.

The Boston Red Sox wound up their home stand by whipping the Chicago White Sox twice, 4 to 3 and 9 to 2, to sweep a four-game series. The double setback dumped the Sox into the cellar.

Cincinnati shoved Brooklyn deeper into seventh place in the national league by winning a double-header, 5 to 3 and 6 to 5. Gre Walker's single with two out won the nightcap, which went 10 innings.

Cleveland made it three straight over Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics by taking the first game of a twin bill, 5 to 4, in 11 innings but dropped the nightcap, 3 to 2, on Steve Gromek's wild pitch in the eighth.

Frank Colman's pinch triple in eighth gave Pittsburgh a 4 to 3 triumph over the Phillies in the first game of their twin bill at Pittsburgh. The Phils were ahead, 9 to 4, in the second game when it was called after the eighth inning because of the Sunday curfew law.

The last inning will be played the next time the Phils visit Pittsburgh. Until then the game does not count in the standings.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Spring fever dept.... This columnist can hear with no serious increases in blood pressure that the ice is out in the Maine lakes and the landlocked salmon and trout are striking furiously; that in Wisconsin big pike are almost jumping into the boats; even that anglers at Peconic bay are hauling in weakfish by the dozens and a big run of blues is reported heading north.... But this note from Dave up at Freedom village is almost too much to endure:

JUST FISHIN'
"Today I went fishing," Dave writes. "I dug some worms and started in at the village dam with the intention to fish down to the outlet. After 15 minutes, I felt a helluva jerk and then a few more, so I pulled in a 12-inch rainbow. No kidding, right in the brook directly behind the store.... The bugs are beginning to bite badly, but now I was determined that nothing would deter me. It really was beautiful down by the stream; the apple blossoms are all out and the brook is just high enough. Everything was perfect.... In the course of my excitement I lighted a cigarette. It smelled funny, or at least I thought I smelled something burning. It was only my new $1.19 sweat shirt. Just then I slipped and darn near went all the way in; I did manage to put the fire in my clothing out, though.... The pungent smell of burning wool snuffed out the aroma of apple blossoms, but I still fished on.... Every time I got discouraged, the 12-inch would jump around in the basket and I would sing aloud (the worst thing one can do around a trout stream).... Down by Sim's I got another bite and another beautiful trout broke the water and played around before I stuck him in my basket—12½ inches.... The time is here; the fish are biting; the weather is great; tomorrow for breakfast I shall have a little rainbow trout.... Spring only comes once a year, why don't you come, too, for a few outings?"

P. S.: If this column turns up missing for a few days, you'll know where I am.

Coach Shows 'Em How — With How In One

PAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—One thing about Bud Tomlin, assistant football coach at the University of Arkansas—he never asks his athletes to something he can't do better.

So it was while he was instructing a class in golf recently. Tiring of watching his class blunder through two holes of golf, Tomlin picked up a club on the third tee.

"Now watch this, fellows," he said.

He swung, the ball sailed in an arc toward the distant green—and a hole-in-one.

MEXICO CITY—Mexico City barber shop owners have been reminded by city officials that they are forbidden by law to work after 10 o'clock at night.

Savage, Kell And Clarke Hope To Follow Johnson's Footsteps

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor
NEW YORK—Three newcomers to the "hot corner" on major league teams are hoping that history repeats when the sports writers gather around to select the "rookie of the year."

The history stuff centers around Bill Johnson of the Yankees, the third sacker who won the coveted honors last year.

In fact, Johnson was the unanimous choice of the players, too.

Dizzy Trout of the Tigers spoke for the rest of the majors when he said:

"Boy, am I glad that Johnson won't be around this year. We threw everything in the book at him last year but we couldn't get him out. That guy could hit them to all fields. Johnson is in the Merchant Marine this year, stationed at New London, Conn., and Don Savage is taking his place with the Yankees.... and doing a good job of it, if you go by early season averages. Don is used to following Johnson. He has been doing it for several years outside of the time he played with Bill in their native Jersey."

Last season with Newark, Don batted .258 and hit 16 homers besides doing a commendable job at short. Johnson and Red Rolfe also played the same spot for the Bears and they made good on third for the Yankees.

George Kell of the Athletics is another new third sacker in the majors. He has a little advantage over Savage inasmuch as he was the leading nitter in professional ball last year—clouting .396 for Lancaster in the Interstate League.

Connie Mack is already sold on Kell as an infielder and if the 5 foot 9 Arkansas 170-pounder can hit within .100 points of his 1943 average, he'll be a strong contender for the season's rookie honors.

The third new "hot corner" guardian is Grey Clarke of the Chicago White Sox, another clouter of note because he walloped the little white ball for a .346 average last season with Milwaukee.

Clarke also led the American Association in total bases. The Englishman has been around pro ball for 11 years and old timers say he is the hardest hitting infielder to come up in a long time.

The War Today

plenty tough, they haven't shown the strength which may be expected in the west wall in France, according to accounts made public by the Allied high command the other day. Also we mustn't forget that the greatest danger to the Allies on D-day will lie in battling their way ashore from the sea. The invasion will provide a brand new type of hell for military history.

At the moment Italy is giving the Nazis plenty of concern. One of their great worries is that the Allies in the Anzio beachhead may launch an offensive in the rear of the hard-hit German right wing on the coast.

German anxiety will be increased by the swift advance of the Yankee vanguard driving on the coast toward Anzio with the left wing of the Allied battle line. The vanguard was racing along the Apennian way and when it had reached the important town of Terracina, only 24 miles from Anzio, it was reported that it was encountering small opposition.

Anzio is indeed a good spot to keep an eye on.

fires went in first and shot up the German ships, the majority of which were minesweepers.

gantic operations yesterday since never before had American bomber forces and the British Royal Air Force joined in such a public bid aimed at destroying a moving military object in the Nazis' defensive territory behind the Atlantic wall.

Official accounts it appeared everything in western Europe was driven to cover.

Fifty-seven British and American planes failed to return from the sweeps, many of them made at speeds of 400-miles-an-hour at tree top levels.

Of the total Allied losses, 35 were American fighter planes. These fighter losses constituted a record for one day's operations.

Allied fighters shot up more than 300 locomotives, scores of troop carriers and trains, hundreds of canals, locks and barges, and scores of grounded enemy planes. They also hit electric power lines and transformers, oil tanks, radio stations, gun emplacements, barracks and even German military staff cars.

LEND-LEASE

The Air ministry said the Spit-gone to the United Kingdom—three-fourths of them in the past year. British bombers are dumping American-made charges on Germany and American fighters roar up from the decks of British carriers.

In the first 60 days of 1944, the report shows, more than 2100 lend-lease planes, almost 2000 tanks and over 60,000 other military vehicles were sent to our allies, the bulk of them to invasion dumps.

Nearly $4,750,000,000 in lend-lease aid has gone to Russia, two-thirds of it in the year just up to March, 1944, we had sent Russia 8,800 fighters and bombers, 180,000 military trucks, 36,000 jeeps, 5,200 tanks and tank destroyers and 30,000 other military vehicles.

The report showed a mounting total of reverse lend-lease. Emphasizing the pooling of Allied fighting equipment, it said:

"In proportion to their available sources our principal allies are putting into this war fully as much as we are, including lend-lease aid."

Here is the report's breakdown of lend-lease: To the United Kingdom, 42.5 per cent; Russia, 27.6 per cent; Africa, Middle East and Mediterranean, 14.4 per cent; China, India, Australia and New Zealand, 11.2 per cent; Latin America, 0.8 per cent; all other areas, 3.5 per cent.

In the Pacific and Far East almost $2,000,000,000 worth of lend-lease have been poured into the fight against Japan.

The most important land fighting of the Pacific war center in the seemingly-imminent victory of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell over the enemy defending Myitkyina in northern Burma. The Japanese were boxed in on three sides and appeared on the verge of collapse. Myitkyina is vital to control of the Burma road.

Chungking said its forces had achieved successfully their initial objectives in crossing the Salween river toward a junction with Stilwell's forces.

Truck Driver Outwits Two Gunmen Near Here

Walter J. Johnson, 28, of R. D. 1, Mineral Ridge, driver for a beverage company, saved $113 for his company by quick thinking near New Albany, late Saturday.

Johnson had parked the truck at the intersection of Routes 165 and 32 to check the vehicle when he saw two men get out of an automobile which was parked nearby. As they approached the front of the truck Johnson heard one of the men say: "Get your gun out. We may have some trouble."

Suspecting he was about to be held up Johnson tossed a wallet containing $113 on top of the truck. The gunmen then came around the rear of the truck with a revolver drawn.

They searched Johnson and took $26 in loose bills he had in his pockets. They ordered Johnson to stay behind his truck and then drove off in the direction of Greenford Mahoning deputy sheriffs said.
